HEALING THROUGH MEETING IN STRANGER THAN FICTION

Kaitryn Wertz, Jungian-oriented Psychotherapist

The American psyche struggles between relatedness and narcissism, between arrogance, selfishness and the inability to love. The film Stranger than Fiction depicts this struggle, illustrating what Martin Buber called "healing through meeting." The isolated, controlled life of an IRS auditor is turned upside down when he hears a mysterious female narrator analyzing him in detail and declaring immanent death. To change his fate he begins a journey of self-awareness that leads him from self-centered encapsulation to a new capacity for relatedness.

Kaitryn (Kate) Wertz, M.Ed., LMHC, is a psychotherapist in private practice in Jupiter, FL, and is currently in the final stage of training as a Jungian analyst.

"In the end, having a more interesting life, a life that disturbs complacency, a life that pulls us out of the comfortable and thereby demands a larger spiritual engagement than we planned or that feels comfortable, is what matters most."
 – James Hollis

In the evening session, Dr. James Hollis will introduce the characteristics of a more considered life. While relationships, love, honor, good work and reputation are important, what really matters most is: that life not be governed by fear; that we learn to tolerate ambiguity; and that we consider feeding the soul.

During the day-long workshop, Dr. Hollis will explore the most important aspects of life: that we respect the power of Eros; that we step into largeness; that we risk growth over security; that we follow the path of creativity; that we engage spiritual crises; that we write our own story; that we fight fate and love it also; that we live more fully in the shadow of mortality; and that we accept that our home is our journey, and our journey is our home. It is having wrestled with these issues, having kept the mystery before us, that matters most.

James Hollis, Ph.D., has a compelling gift for distilling complex literary, artistic, historical, philosophical and scientific material and conveying their symbolic essence. He is a Zurich-trained, licensed Jungian analyst in private practice in Houston, TX, where he served as Executive Director of the Jung Educational Center. He is Vice President Emeritus of the Philemon Foundation (dedicated to the publication of the complete works of Jung) and also Director of the Jungian Studies program of San Francisco's Saybrook University. Dr. Hollis is one of the most widely published Jungian authors with 13 books, including Archetypal Imagination, Finding Meaning in the Second Half of Life, and his most recent work, What Matters Most: Living a More Considered Life.

JUNG AND THE TAROT

Julia Turk, Tarot Master

The 78 Tarot cards contain hidden information about the psyche including archetypes encountered in modern analysis. These forerunners of our modern cards "are psychological images, symbols with which one plays, as the unconscious plays with its contents...there is a sort of correspondence or a likeness between the prevailing condition and the condition of the collective unconscious." In this presentation, attendees will learn more about the correspondences in the Tarot cards and their connection to methods of analysis.

Julia A. Turk, Certified Tarot Master, is a yacht skipper who created 'The Navigator's Tarot of the Mystic Sea deck and companion book. She is an artist and past member of the American Tarot Association and the Association of Humanistic Psychology.

JUNGIAN TYPOLOGY & SPIRITUALITY

Ann Lynch, Ed.D., President of CJSSF & Jeannette Sullivan, MA, Board Member

Have you ever wondered how your personality affects your spirituality? Jung's theory of typology suggests that human behavior has unique consistencies that have a powerful impact on spiritual expression and common stumbling blocks encountered at deeper spiritual exploration. This workshop will examine Jung's theory of types expressed in the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator® (MBTI), and will help participants assess their own MBTI® type. It will focus on how personality type influences one's spiritual journey, on cultivating spiritual gifts and practices, and on helping assess one's own spiritual progress.

Ann Q. Lynch, Ed.D., LMHC, LMFT, is President and a founding Board Member of the Center for Jungian Studies of South Florida. She is Professor Emeritus, Counselor Education, Florida Atlantic University, and has published on psychological type and the MBTI®.

Jeannette S. Sullivan, M.A., is a professor at Palm Beach State College. She is a qualified MBTI® presenter, and Communications Chair on the Center's Board of Directors.

SEX, LOVE & ROCK YOUR SOUL: WHAT MATTERS MOST IN RELATIONSHIPS

Constance Avery-Clark, Ph.D., Jungian-oriented Psychologist

Sex and romance are often the most powerful responses to our personal yearnings. We long for that Magical Other only to confront a Radical Other that upsets our intentions and breaks our hearts. This workshop will explore the paradoxical nature of intimacy and the necessity of honoring one's own soul under the influence of Eros, weaving together Jungian perspectives with those of Masters and Johnson. Clinical examples will illustrate intimacy dynamics, and attention will be given to working with these concerns in one's own life and in the lives of one's clients.

Constance Avery-Clark, Ph.D., is a licensed Clinical Psychologist and an AASECT-Certified Sex Therapist who worked at Masters & Johnson Institute with her husband. She is currently a Ph.D. candidate in James Hollis's Jungian Studies Program.

CALL OF THE SEED: MAPPING THE CO-EVOLUTION OF PSYCHE & SPIRIT

Hillevi Ruumet, Ph.D., Transpersonal Psychologist

The "seed" of Self with which we are born is always straining toward the path of psycho-spiritual wholeness. Based on her book Pathways of the Soul, Dr. Ruumet uses the Eastern Chakra system as a symbolic framework for outlining this path's stages. This workshop explores the path of inner development and possible applications on the interpersonal and collective levels for those committed to consciousness evolution and psychological individuation beyond conventional parameters, including the co-evolution of spiritual and psychological wellness.

Hillevi Ruumet, Ph.D., is a transpersonal, Columbia University-educated Clinical Psychologist and former Clinical Faculty Director at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. She has trained in a variety of therapeutic modalities and interfaith spiritual directions. Her process and personal practice include a strong Jungian and Buddhist base with 30 years of clinical experience.

INDIVIDUATION AND DEATH IN DEAD MAN

Rick Overman, Psy.D., Jungian Analyst

For psychological individuation to occur, the ego must face the reality of its own death as suggested in the film Dead Man, offering a vision of one man's journey into a hell of meaningless destruction and heartless violence. Johnny Depp plays a vapid young accountant who has lost his heart and imagination, and faces impending death. Reflecting our culture's mechanical soullessness, the character is offered many possibilities for his transformation in this liminal passage to "the place where all the spirits came from and all the spirits return."

Rick L. Overman, Psy.D., is a licensed psychologist & Jungian psychoanalyst in private practice in Ft. Lauderdale & Boca Raton. A senior training analyst for the Florida Association of Jungian Analysts and former President of the CJSSF, he is a long-time student of Buddhism and has a degree in Religious Studies.

THE PARADOXICAL HEALING REQUIRED BY TRAUMA IN ADAM RESURRECTED

Dominic Callahan, Ph.D., Jungian-oriented Psychologist

Adam Resurrected portrays a gifted magician in a 1930's Berlin cabaret act as he is brought with his family to a concentration camp, forced to live like a dog and play the violin for gas chamber prisoners, including his own wife and daughter. Using the Holocaust as a metaphor for universal trauma, this presentation explores how healing demands the paradox of turning towards the darkness and returning to the wounding. Jung's seminal ideas about archetypal energies and dissociative properties, coupled with Jungian Analyst Donald Kalsched's work on trauma, provide the scaffold.

Dominic Callahan, Ph.D., is a licensed Clinical Psychologist in private practice in Coral Springs, FL. A former President of the Center for Jungian Studies, he has presented often for the Center on issues ranging from addiction to the interface of the collective and the personal.

BEYOND PRAYER: THE EXPERIENCE OF GOD

Judith Moscu, Ph.D., Jungian Analyst

We must explore the collective unconscious's "unbounded and infinite" space that escapes even the archetypal forms, a space with no images, often referred to as the realm of God. Our relationship with God is limited by conventional understanding that may be difficult because the relationship is paradoxical. God may sometimes be felt as personal, amicable, and embracing, and sometimes not! Our relationship with the unconscious may be experienced as similarly paradoxical. This workshop explores these ideas and related topics.

Judith Moscu, Ph.D., has her doctorate in Psychoanalytic Studies, University of Essex, UK, and her licensure in Psychology and Jungian analytic training in her native Venezuela. She is a senior training analyst with the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts.

23RD SEASON ANNUAL DINNER EVENT: THE RED BOOK OF C.G. JUNG

Film featuring Murray Stein, Ph.D., Jungian Analyst

While working on The Red Book (1913-1930), published 48 years after his death, Jung developed his theories of archetypes, the collective unconscious and the process of individuation. It is possibly the most influential hitherto unpublished work in psychology. With messages of sacrifice, initiation, transformation, and individuation, Jungian analyst Dr. Murray Stein describes it as a "A highly stylized record of a mid-life man's encounter with his Soul," a struggle for psychic survival, and a call to honor our own journey. The manuscript features Jung's brightly hued and strikingly graphic forms paired with thoughts in his exquisitely illuminated calligraphy. The Webcast production is shown with the permission of the Asheville Jung Center.

A panel discussion follows with local Jungian Analysts and the audience, facilitated by Dr. Pamela Heider. An elegant dinner will complete the event.

Murray Stein, Ph.D., is an internationally acclaimed Jungian analyst, President of the International School of Analytical Psychology in Zurich, and former President of the International Association for Analytical Psychology.

Pamela Heider, Ph.D., Jungian and Gestalt Psychotherapist, is Vice-President and Program Director of the Center.
